

Имя, фамилия: _____

🔍 Translate. Remember to be specific about position in Russian, even where English is vague. Watch где vs. куда.

1. We hung our coats on the coatrack (вешалка).

Now they're hanging on the coatrack.

2. She put the books back (upright!) on the shelves (shelf = полка). (to express "back," use the adverb обратно)

Now the books are on the shelves.

3. I lay the huge dictionary (flat!) on the table.

Now the dictionary is lying on the table.

4. The waiter seated me far away from the television.

Now I'm sitting at a table next to the bathroom (туалет) and can't see anything.

🔍 Give a few typical everyday commands for "putting." As always, be specific about position in Russian, even when English isn't!

1. Hang your hat (шапка) on the hanger (вешалка). One should always hang one's hat there.

2. Put your book on the shelf. One should always put the books there.

3. Should I serve you some more fish? (literally, "To lay (perfective) to you still of fish?" — very common when serving guests)

4. Don't stand on the edge (на краю) of the platform (платформа).

🔍 Answer a few questions involving "putting" verbs of position. As the questions themselves show, these require куда constructions.

1. Куда ты обычно кладёшь свои книги?

2. Что ты сделаешь, если официант посадит тебя туда, куда не хочешь (то есть, за плохой стол).

3. У тебя новая карта России. Куда её повесишь?

4. У тебя прекрасный новый диван. Куда его поставишь?
